

Buena Vista

Singapore City

Place
Singapore City, Singapore

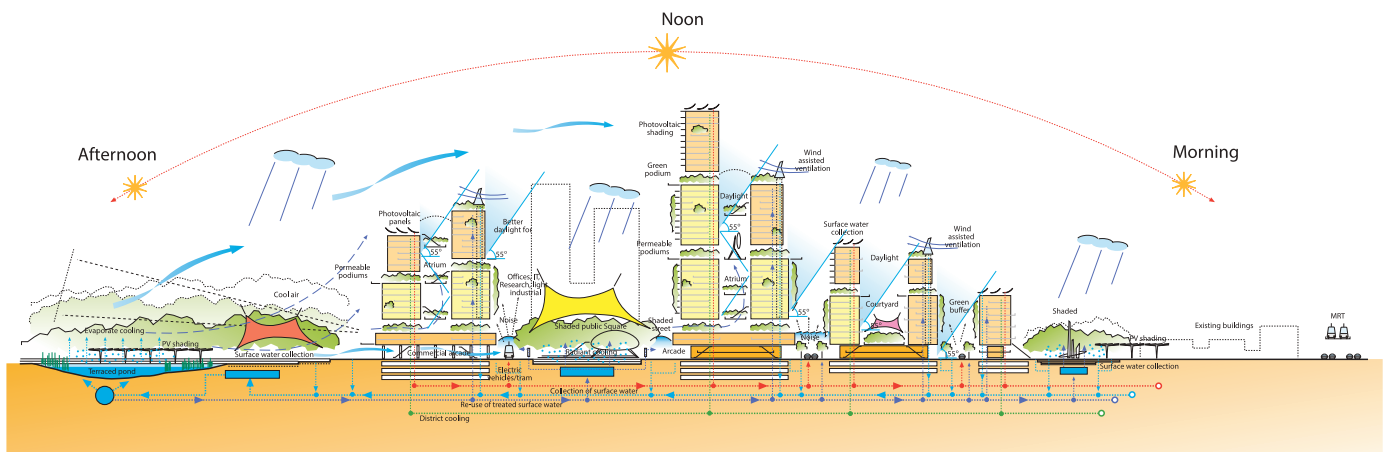

Date
2000

Client
JTC, Singapore

Environmental Consultant
Battle McCarthy

Traffic Engineer
Ove Arup & Partners

This flexible strategic plan is designed to allow for incremental growth, including an expanding and integrated transport system

The practice generated a new model for a mixed community of living, working and leisure, accommodating a centre for excellence in media, e-business and bio sciences. This flexible strategic plan is designed to allow for incremental growth, including an expanding and integrated transport system.

The scheme's 4 million m² of multi-use space encompasses five neighbourhoods surrounding a central eco-park. This cool lung for the community provides leisure and amenity for the inhabitants as an antidote to the hot and humid climate, as well as an opportunity for water recycling.

The ambition is to create a live web-enabled development model that gives designers, local authorities and citizens a simple and informative feedback on a wide variety of planning issues – environmental, transport, cost etc.